Abstract: As known, "tourism is a priority area of the national economy". Therefore, the comparative analysis of the changes in the main legal norms related to the rural tourism in Romania in period 1990-2003 aims to observe the essential points in this branch of national economy development. In the same time, the authors observe the contribution of those norms to the increase and support of rural tourism.

• Introduction

The support of rural tourism is necessary because of the concrete conditions do not favor a strong economic dynamic of it.

• Material and method

The teleological comparison method of OG 62/1994 | OG 63/1997 | OG 58/1998 | HG 1267/2010

• Results and discussions

The discussions concern to what extent the legal regulation supporting rural tourism have achieved what they set out to do.

• Conclusions

The final results can only be obtained after an analysis of the corresponding data of the National Statistic Institute.
