Abstract: Talking about "rural development" and trying to establish what are the priorities of this sector is, without exaggeration, one of the most ambitious and difficult projects. Rural and agricultural areas represent one of the most significant contributions regarding natural capital. The purpose of this paper is to highlight the success of NRDP 2023-2027 in supporting the development of agricultural activities, the evaluation being carried out statistically, based on the official announcements of AFIR, Session no. DR30-01/23-31.01.2024/Monthly stage: 2 (01.12.2023-31.12.2023) Intervention 30, from Region 5 West.

• Introduction

The increase in rural welfare is perceived when positive effects are registered in relation to the economic and social phenomena that have dominated and still dominate the countryside, such as:

- stopping the migration of the population from the village to the city, by creating alternatives that motivate their existence and stimulate their action initiative to ensure the necessities of life;
- combating poverty;
- stimulation and diversification of services;
- equality of chances;
- the right to a better life, the right to health, education and security.

• Material and method

The practical research of the results of submissions and applications selected for the DR30 direction was carried out taking the information presented by AFIR, during the first 4 months of 2024.
